

Friatec Y-Piece

Installing water and gas service connections to properties can be difficult and costly, particularly when the mains line is separated from the property by a roadway.

Traditionally connections to two or more adjacent properties has required excavating the roadway multiple times – one for each mains off-take and branch line adding significant cost and time.

The Friatec Y-piece with integrated heating coils provides the perfect way to connect multiple properties from a single branch line.

Now a single DN40 branch line can supply two properties with the use of the 32-32-40 Friatec Y-piece (Vinidex item 89572). The integrated heating coils negate the need for additional couplers – simply prepare the pipe, insert and fuse – saving excavation time and money.

Connect multiple properties from a single branch line!
